

Some churches bring us funny signs from above. Churches have long known the pulpit isn't the only place to spread a winning sermon. Those signs out front are a great way to reach the faithful, deliver a message to the community - and even have a little fun! Some houses of worship use their signs to show how up to date they are: "Hipster Jesus loved you before you were cool!" read one and turned out fine," read another. And the messages can put extra weight behind even the simplest request, considering the source. How about: "Be on time with Jesus. Set clocks back Sunday!" The end may be near - but at least we will go out laughing!
